LightSaver

Bringing old luminaires back from the dark side

As a new service, we want to make the LightSaver process as easy as possible. When you first contact us, we will discuss your goals with you, investigate the possible options available and estimate potential savings and costs.

We will need to see a luminaire sample to assess and understand exactly what we are working with. Once we have agreed upon a plan, we can collect or you can deliver the remainder of your luminaires to our factory.

We will keep you up-to-date with how things are progressing as the work is carried out and when the luminaires are completed, they can either be collected or delivered to you. By saving precious materials from being scrapped, your sustainability goals for the project have been achieved and we have both contributed to the circular economy.
